

From Tucson...

Take State Route 86 west from Tucson all the way to "Why," AZ.

Why is a good place to top off the fuel tank before crossing into Mexico.

Continue south on SR 85 through Organ Pipe National Monument to the border at Lukeville, AZ. This is the last stop prior to Mexico.

The settlement at Lukeville is called "Gringo Pass" and has all facilities available if there was anything you forgot. There is a well stocked grocery store, etc. but the prices are pretty high.

You will cross the border at Lukeville, AZ/Sonoita, Sonora, Mexico.

Getting through Sonoita.... Once across the border you will continue south into Sonoita. The speed limit here is fairly slow so be careful. Driving in Mexico is not a problem as long as you drive defensively.

About two miles from the border you will come to a three way intersection. Stay to the left (towards Caborca). Do not take the direction to San Luis. About one block south of there the road will split into a "Y." "Pharmacia San Luis" will be on your right just before the "Y." Stay to the right and you will be on the road to Rocky Point. You will pass "Vasquez's" on your left (great place to stop for Tequila, Beer & Soda) if you have made the correct turn.

There is a traffic light soon after Vasquez's that is easy to miss if you don't know it is there. Continue along the same road all the way to Rocky Point.

The highway from Sonoita to Puerto Peñasco is approximately 50 miles of open range. You will know you are close to Rocky point when you start seeing sand dunes and at night the lights of Rocky Point/Sandy Beach.
